

Many Attend Hunters Banquet

MOVIES SHOW LOCAL SPORTS ACTIVITIES

A good attendance was had at the hunters banquet, sponsored by the Winter Sports Association at Shoppenagons Inn Wednesday evening. After a delightful dinner, a few impromptu talks were given and these were followed by moving pictures of Grayling winter sports carnivals, canoe carnival and out-door Michigan views. Soon after 7:00 p. m. Chief Ne-jack's Tomahawk orchestra played a march while the guests took seats at two long tables in the dining room. Printed menus at each plate gave the following list:

Menu
Fruit Cocktail Supreme
Wafers and Parker House Rolls
Celery Olives Pickles
Filet Mignon Bordelaise
Parisienne Potatoes Rissolée
French Peas
Shoppenagons' Salad
Ricaille Sundae and Cake
Coffee

The orchestra continued its music throughout the banquet, after which Dr. C. R. Keyport, president of the Winter Sports Association, Inc., welcomed the visitors and gave a brief resume of the plans of the Association. He emphasized the idea of making winter sports a full winter time activity instead of a couple of days of carnival.

T. F. Marston, secretary of the Eastern Michigan Tourist association, was present and endorsed the activities of the Grayling people and commended their hospitality and friendliness. Ninety percent of the business places in Grayling are subscribing members of the E. M. T. He said his organization was always glad to help us put over our affairs. When we are ready to advertise our winter sports, his organization will provide radio advertising.

Capt. Betts, commander of the 4th district CCC camps, comprising eight camps, spoke of the close relationship between the camps and the people of Grayling and called attention to the fact that Grayling was the trading center of four camps in this district and our chief trading resource. He liked Grayling and Grayling people and appreciated the pleasant relationship between the officers and men of the camps and the people of Grayling. There were several CCC camp officers and their wives present at the banquet. It appears to us that Capt. Betts' talk brot the people of the camps and of Grayling still closer together for a closer friendly relationship.

Jack Davis of Bay City made a few friendly remarks and said that he would be on the job at the carnival next winter to again decorate our business places.

Harold (Spike) McNeven, chairman of the Winter Sports entertainment committee, announced the program for the week. The banquet program would be followed by a dance at the Temple and next Saturday night at the school gym.

Show Carnival Pictures.

One of the anticipated pleasures of the evening was the presentation of motion pictures of Grayling winter sports and of the canoe carnival. Ben Wright, publicity director for the E. M. T., showed several reels that were very much enjoyed by everyone. Three reels, taken and owned by Fred Welsh showing winter sports pictures for the years 1930 to 1933, brot back pleasant memories and were greatly enjoyed. And pictures of last summer's canoe carnival showed many of our youngsters and oldsters in sports, bike racing, greased pig chasing, greased pole climbing contests, and in canoes as they drifted down the famous AuSable.

These pictures are great and we owe a lot of thanks to Mr. Welsh and Mr. Drier for the films. These latter, together with other outdoor Michigan motion pictures are being shown throught the state and in the states of Indiana and Ohio. Certainly the E. M. T. is giving, thru the efforts of Mr. Marston and Mr. Wright, Crawford county a tremendous lot of excellent publicity. Grayling and the AuSable river are always prominent in sporting magazines and pictures. The dance at the Temple was well attended and everyone had a good time. Next Saturday there will be a hunters ball at the school gym when everyone appears in hunters togs.

Armistice Day Church Service

Armistice day was observed at Michelson Memorial church last Sunday evening with fitting peace services.

Rev. Zoller, pastor of the church, preached on the subject, "The Price of Peace." He told how wars were started and reviewed the status of the colonies and of the sacredness of peace treaties. "Nations," he said, "will have to decide they are not the sole judges of their acts. They must be willing to practice the teachings of the Great Peace Maker."

Many members of the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary were in attendance. Also the Grayling band which rendered a program of patriotic music, and had no small part in making the service inspiring and interesting.

There were very few empty seats in the church that evening which was not only an inspiration to its pastor but to the church goers in general.

THANKS THE VOTERS

It is with a keen sense of gratitude that I extend sincere thanks to the voters of Crawford county for the splendid vote given me for the office of representative in the legislature from Presque Isle district. I certainly appreciate this evidence of your confidence. More than ever before I shall feel the responsibility that you have reposed in me, and shall use every effort to serve you faithfully and honestly.

WILLIAM GREEN.

4-H Club Has Fine Display

For several days last week a display in the window of the Grayling Hardware attracted a lot of attention. It was the exhibit of the 4-H Club of Maple Forest, which was one of several clubs organized just last spring by Arthur Glidden, County Agricultural agent in the three counties of Crawford, Otsego and Montmorency.

At a County Achievement day held at Gaylord recently the work accomplished by the Maple Forest 4-H Club was praised by A. G. Kettunen, State Club leader from Michigan State College. "The Maple Forest Club is the first summer club to complete its project work in Crawford county," said Mr. Kettunen, "and the quality of the exhibits made by this club would be a credit to boys and girls who have spent several years in Club work." This statement was made by Mr. Kettunen after reviewing the exhibits made by 90 boys and girls from Crawford, Montmorency, and Otsego counties.

The Club exhibit was made up of canned goods exhibited by Mary Hummel and Emma Jean Owen; and potatoes selected by Morris Babbitt, Harold Babbitt, Keith Babbitt, and Charles Owen Jr. In the open competition between all first year canning club girls in Crawford, Montmorency, and Otsego counties, Mary Hummel placed fourth and Emma Jean Owen received honorable mention. The boys added to the good record made by the girls by their fine exhibits of potatoes. Morris Babbitt captured the third place honors in the open competition in first year potato work, which fourth place went to his brother Harold; Charles Owen Jr., and Keith Babbitt received honorable mention in the same class. The winnings made by the Crawford County boys was made in a show where potato club members from Otsego and Montmorency counties were also competing.

This is fine work and these boys and girls are to be congratulated for their efforts. A 4-H club program is devised to offer the boys and girls of the rural communities and villages advantages of a national recreational, educational and practical institution which has for its foundation the development of the head, the heart, hands and health of its members.

CONGRESSMAN WOODRUFF THANKS VOTERS

GEN. WILSON DEFEATED

According to the latest reports of two Detroit newspapers last Thursday morning Gen. Guy M. Wilson, democratic candidate for secretary of state, was elected.

Later returns however indicated his defeat. Due, no doubt, to General Wilson's popularity in Grayling, where he has been in command of the National guards during their summer training seasons, he was given the largest vote of any contested candidate on the state ticket in Crawford county.

Mr. Atwood, the republican and successful candidate is at the head of the motor vehicle department of the department of state and is recognized as one of the most intelligent men in the state's employ and a very capable official. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago and played football on its team and later was a graduate coach. He served as a representative and state senator and is father of the gas tax bill and the relicited land bill. He is a student of government and few men have a stronger background in public life. These are only a few of the many qualifications Mr. Atwood has for this important position to which the people of Michigan have elected him.

SCHOOL AFFAIRS

As you have probably noticed by now, the whole school is in an uproar over "magazines," "subscriptions," "prizes," "bargains," etc., etc.—has been since Friday afternoon. With plenty good reason too!

On that never-to-be-forgotten day, there breezed into town an amicable gentleman by the name of John F. Son (Johnny to his friends)—club plan campaign manager for the Crowell Publishing Company. He interested Mr. Poor, (who has been spending all his spare time for the past few weeks racking his brain for a way of obtaining money for athletic equipment) in his plan for an all-school magazine selling project. His proposition sounded to the harassed principal (superintendent now) almost too good to be true, for while he offered excellent opportunity for school profit, he at the same time held out savings to subscribers that range from 20% to as high as 200% on newstand values of nationally recognized magazines. Also he offers, as a bonus to the student salesmen, substantial prizes and awards which are in themselves exceedingly attractive.

After making sure that he heard right and that this wasn't merely a dream and that Mr. Son really was making his offer in behalf of one of the best publishing houses in the country, Mr. Poor called an assembly and turned it over to the salesman, who organized the whole school into two divisions: the "Do-Betters," made up of the 8th, 10th, and 12th grades, and the "Go-Getters," the 7th, 9th, and 11th grades, with captains Harvey Reagan and Clyde Borchers of the "Do-Betters" and "Go-Getters" respectively. DeAlton Griffith business manager.

Everyone has entered into the spirit of the thing with vengeance and the competition is keen. Of course the team spirit isn't the whole thing. The prizes, which range from an Eversharp pencil to a wrist watch, with kodaks, handbags, flashlights, compasses, and so forth, in between are a powerful factor.

The purpose of the teams is to manage an "election" with finally the inauguration of a "governor" at a big "governors ball" to which all members of the losing team will be required to appear in whatever costume is prescribed by the "governor" and his advisers.

As this is written the "primaries" are well under way. Clara Atkinson, on the side of the "Do-Betters," is leading with 800 votes. Other candidates are: Harvey Reagan, DeAlton Griffith, Stephan Jorgenson and Alex Kochanowski. No figures are, as yet, available on the "Go-Getters" primary, but Clyde Borchers is believed to be well in the lead.

Gloria McNeven, by selling as much as any other five persons on either team has, up to Tuesday afternoon, the latest date of all figures in this article, put her team, the "Go-Getters" several dollars in the lead. Other subscriptions are pouring in rapidly and it is impossible to give any accurate figures for the paper as standings of teams and of candidates are constantly changing.

Mr. Poor and Mr. Cornell moved into their new headquarters Tuesday with no ceremony whatsoever and with no interruption of the High School schedule.

Last spring our superintendent, Mr. Burns, was called, in his role of Reserve Army officer, to a CCC camp in the upper peninsula—obtaining a leave of absence from the school board here at the time. Mr. Poor then took over the duties of acting superintendent along with his own of principal. This arrangement had been continued until just last week when it was definitely determined that it would be impossible for Mr. Burns to return this winter.

Accordingly, Mr. Poor, who has in reality been the superintendent for the last four months of school, was officially promoted.

Mr. Cornell who has been a prominent figure for the last two years as a coach of no mean ability, and one of the most popular members of the faculty, has taken over the principals office.

On the night of Nov. 23, the Green and White and the Alumni will once again "cross swords" on the gym floor and one or the other will go down in defeat.

The Green & White have been putting in some strenuous practices based for the most part on the fundamentals of basketball, and by November 28 they will be ready to take on the Alumni.

At present the line-up stands about as follows:

Forwards: E. Chalker, J. Brady, and D. Smock with Lars Rasmussen and Ransom Murphy giving the veterans some strong competition. Guards: G. Hanson, C. Borchers, D. Gothro and Ken Hoelil. Left Roy Milliken and Chas. Corwin are showing up well also. Centers: L. Lovely, Harold Smith, and L. Dunham. Leo Lovely is leading despite his short stature. Competition has been unusually strong this year and positions on the team have been sought with even more than the usual zealous efforts.

In the forthcoming game the High school team will be somewhat handicapped by size but Coach Cornell says that they are a determined group with fine spirit and are out to win.

There will be a snappy preliminary to start at 7:30, and a real basketball attraction is promised. We wouldn't miss it.

Last Friday the third all-school party of the year was held in the gym. A large crowd attended and everyone danced to the peppy music furnished by the "Indians". These affairs are prepared by the Junior and Senior classes and arranged by the Junior-Senior Council. Here is an opportunity for the students to really get to know everyone from the 7th to the 12th grade is invited to attend. The Council deserves much credit for the parties they have put across so splendidly this year.

THE AMENDMENTS

Official report of the result of the election on the six amendments as voted in Crawford county were obtained too late for report in our last week's edition. Following is the result of the final compilation:

No. 1—362 yes; 494 no.
No. 2—265 yes; 649 no.
No. 3—800 yes; 584 no.
No. 4—302 yes; 643 no.
No. 5—233 yes; 579 no.
No. 6—136 yes; 592 no.

All amendments were defeated in the state. The first, regarding the non-partisan election of judges and the fourth amendment relative to the home rule of counties ran quite close in the state and for several days after the election there was some question as to their passing or defeat. Final returns retired these along with the other four. The amendments relative to the reduction in the gas and weight taxes were decisively defeated in the state.

RED CROSS AGENCIES
SAFEGUARD HEALTH*First Aid, Life Saving, Nursing Care, Promote Health and Safety

Five outstanding services make up the health-conservation program of the American Red Cross, according to the annual report just issued in Washington. These services are first aid and life saving, which together have trained more than a million persons; nursing, with an active enrollment of 36,133 registered nurses; Public Health Nursing, conducted by 7500 nurses in 424 chapters last year; and Home Hygiene, which has taught more than 700,000 men and women simple ways of caring for the sick at home.

"The achievements of the Red Cross in public health nursing place it among the leaders in this field," said James L. Fleaser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations. "This service was organized in 1919 to meet needs developed by the World War and the ravages of the flu epidemic which in 1918-1919 took so great a toll of life.

"Since that time Red Cross nursing services have been pioneers in more than one half of the counties in the United States. Many services we established were taken over later by civic, state and federal agencies, and the Red Cross continues to establish services in other new fields. Red Cross nurses made more than a million visits to patients last year, and 629,025 children in schools were inspected.

"Red Cross courses in home hygiene and care of the sick are especially important in times of depression, because they teach families to maintain hygienic conditions in their homes and to recognize symptoms of illness early enough to prevent serious consequences.

"Our courses in first aid have been instrumental in saving lives of the injured; in safeguarding the accident victim until the physician arrives, and in reducing time lost by workers in factories, mines and other industries. We are also giving the course extensively to police and fire departments throughout the country, and to state highway patrols."

Everyone is invited to join the Red Cross during the annual membership roll call which continues from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving, to have a part in the health program and the other humanitarian services of the Red Cross.

Events the World Over*Nation Indorses President and the New Deal at the Polls—Democrats Gain Nine Seats in the Senate.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© by Western Newspaper Union.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT and his fellow New Dealers had every reason to gloat over the results of the elections, for, generally speaking, their policies and acts were endorsed by the citizens of the United States by what amounted to a real landslide. The Democrats gained nine seats in the United States senate; and on incomplete returns, appeared to have just about held their present strength in the lower house.

Outstanding among the many Democratic victories was that scored in Pennsylvania. That state has not previously sent a Democrat to the senate in a half a century, but this time Joseph Guffy, the party boss, rode roughshod over Senator David A. Reed, leading adversary of the New Deal, and sent him to the discard. Two other persistent critics of the administration who were retired were Senator Simon B. Fess of Ohio, beaten by former Gov. Vic Donahey; and Senator Arthur R. Robinson of Indiana, soundly walloped by Sherman Minton. Harfield of West Virginia, Walcott of Connecticut, Hebert of Rhode Island, Keen of New Jersey, Goldsborough of Maryland and Patterson of Missouri, all Republican senators, must give up their seats respectively to young Rush D. Holt, Francis T. Maloney, Peter G. Gerry, A. Harry Moore, George L. Radcliffe and Harry S. Truman, all Democrats.

Upton Sinclair, the extreme radical, had the fun of searing California out of its wits with his EPIC campaign for the governorship, and at little or no expense to himself, but the national administration had turned him down and the Republican nominee, Gov. Frank P. Merriam, won by a handsome majority. So the wealthy "refugees" who make California their home decided not to abandon the state. Hiram Johnson, being the nominee of everyone for re-election, goes back to the senate.

Wisconsin remained true to the La Follette dynasty even though it had created a new "Progressive" party for its own uses. Senator Bob La Follette had been patted on the head by President Roosevelt, and John M. Callahan, Democratic nominee for the senate, was not acceptable to the administration because he was a friend of Al Smith; so Bob came through with a big plurality over Sherman Minton.

B. Chapple, the Republican candidate, To clinch the victory of the third party, Philip La Follette was elected governor again, defeating Gov. Albert Schmiedeman, Democrat, and Howard T. Greene, Republican.

There was a crumb of comfort for the Republicans in the re-election of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, who has condemned parts and espoused other parts of the New Deal. One other crumb, less comforting, was afforded them in Maryland where Albert C. Ritchie was defeated in his attempt to annex a fifth consecutive term as governor. He was beaten by Harry W. Nice, a Republican of Baltimore whom Ritchie defeated for the same place in 1919. This did not make administration men weep much.

The old line Republicans succeeded in re-electing Senator Austin M. Vermont and Senator Townsend in Delaware.

Illinois, New York and Massachusetts were among the states that were swept by the Democrats. In the first named they took five house seats from the Republicans, the defeated included the veteran Fred Britten. New Yorkers returned Dr. Royal S. Copeland to the senate and H. H. Lehman to the governorship by tremendous majorities. Senator David I. Walsh was re-elected in Massachusetts, and Jim Curley, three times mayor of Boston, was made governor.

In the main the Democratic campaign had been skillfully conducted under the leadership of Postmaster Jim Farley. A fight to oust the "line" always is difficult, and the Republicans in their hearts had not hoped for much. They did not get even the little they had expected. For at least two years President Roosevelt is assured of full support by congress for whatever policies and experiments he may undertake, and the voters of the nation have told him to go ahead and do what he can to restore the country to prosperity.

FIRST of the administration chiefs to make a post-election speech, Secretary of Commerce Roper said over the radio: "We are not going to have a dictatorship to the left or an autocracy to the right."

He insisted that the Roosevelt recovery program contemplates the restoration of private profits and that, in fact, the government's essential revenues, through the income tax, are dependent upon private profits.

"As soon as future relief requirements can be determined," Secretary Roper said in announcing a new approach to the relief problem, "the major portion of these expenditures should be assumed by the states and localities, with federal assistance supplied only to those instances where the situation cannot possibly be met without federal aid. We need to discourage the growing tendency to let the federal government do it."

SEVEN states voted on repudiation of prohibition and only Kansas, still stoutly Republican, remained dry. The others, all turning wet, were Florida, West Virginia, Nebraska, South Dakota, Wyoming and Idaho.

In Nebraska Senator George Norris succeeded in putting over his pet amendment to the state constitution providing for a small one-house legislature, and there is a belief that he will run for governor in 1936 to guide the experiment. Under the amendment, the 1935 legislature will pick a number of legislators—between 30 and 50—for its one-house successor. Annual salaries will be determined by dividing the number into $37,500.

OFFICERS and crew of the Morro Castle are held to blame for the heavy loss of life when the liner burned, in the government's report on the disaster, but no attempt is made to fix the origin of the fire that took 134 lives.

"After a careful examination of the wreck and evaluation of the testimony," says the report submitted by Dickerson N. Hoover, assistant director of the steamboat inspection service, "it is not possible to state what the exact cause was."

Blame for the catastrophe is placed by the government also on the construction of the vessel itself.

SOVIET Russia celebrated the seventeenth anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution with a parade of the great Red Army before the tomb of Lenin in Moscow, and at the same time the Comintern, or Third Internationale, issued by cable an appeal to the toilers of the world to unite in a common front against imperialist wars and Fascism.

"Japan and Germany seek to provoke war and this war can only be postponed by the union of all proletarians into a solid front for a fight against capitalism," said the message.

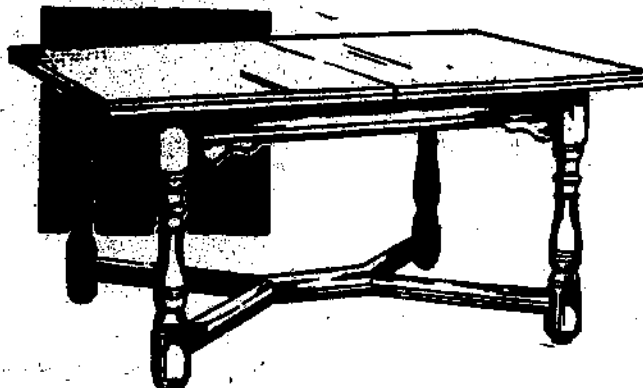

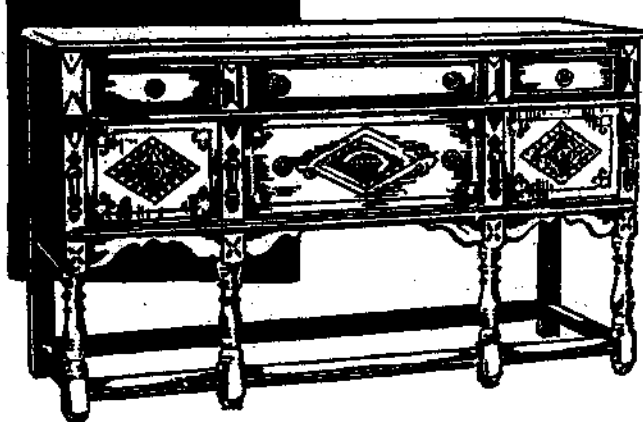

Asserting Fascism is in power in Germany, Austria, Italy, and Poland, the comintern branded this as a threat to the laboring masses of all countries and a menace to the Soviet Union.

GASTON DOUMERGUE, utterly unable to make headway against the political schemers in the French cabinet, has resigned the premiership and returned to the retirement from which he was called last February to save the country from imminent civil war.

Radical Socialist ministers, determined to frustrate his plan for constitutional reform, refused the premier's offer to postpone discussion of this scheme until after a regular budget was voted, provide the chamber of deputies first passed a three months' budget. Doumergue thereupon read his resignation, and at the suggestion of Edouard Herriot, leader of the Radical Socialists, the entire cabinet resigned.

President Lebrun immediately asked Pierre Laval, foreign minister, to form another coalition government, but he refused the commission. So the difficult job was turned over to Pierre-Etienne Flandin, a left Republican who was minister of public works in the Doumergue cabinet.

The crisis aroused fear of armed conflict in Paris between the Socialists and the so-called Fascist groups, for both parties called on their militant elements to be ready for action. There was danger, too, that the meeting of war veterans and patriotic societies on Armistice day would be turned into an anti-government demonstration.

FOR the information of those who are inquisitive as to what the Germanic Faith movement is all about, here are the nine commandments just issued for the neo-pagans, to replace the ten commandments of the Christian Bible:

1. Honor the deity, the World foundation.
2. Honor ancestors and grand-children.
3. Honor the great of thy people.
4. Honor thy parents.
5. Keep yourself clean.
6. Be loyal to your people.
7. Do not steal.
8. Be truthful.
9. Help the people.

UNDER the auspices of the National Association of Manufacturers, a drive has been started "to prevent labor union coercion," and all state legislatures, when they convene, are to be asked to enact six specific provisions "for the purpose of fixing the legal responsibility of labor organizations for their acts."

The association says it is moved to this course because it believes the federal government is at last aware of the "terrorism" practiced by union members against other employees who desire to act.

The laws to be asked of legislatures are:

1. To make sympathetic strikes and sympathetic lockouts illegal.
2. To make both employers and unions equally responsible for the observance of contracts.
3. To make it illegal for any association of employers or employees to expel, suspend, fine or otherwise punish members refusing to participate in an illegal strike or lockout.
4. To make picketing illegal when it is carried on in such a manner as to intimidate or coerce employees or customers.
5. To declare illegal employment contracts requiring a person either to join or not to join any labor organization.
6. To require written consent of the employee before the deduction of any part of his wages for the payment of organization dues may be made.

FRANCIS J. GORMAN, head of the United Textile Workers' committee that directed the recent strike, in a letter to G. A. Sloan, head of the Cotton Textile Institute, said that union labor would be glad to co-operate with the industry in developing new markets for the output of the factories.

He declared that after controversies had been ironed out by the federal board named as a result of the strike, representatives of the two sides could "begin conferences looking toward the improvement of the industry."

Mentioning the increased competition for Japanese goods and other factors which caused demand for American textiles to fall "millions of yards" below production capacity, he said:

"A part of the purpose of the conferences which I have in mind would be to create joint employer-union machinery for the expansion and extension of the textile market. Such a program would be in furtherance of the interests of workers and employers alike.

"The union has a definite contribution to make in the development of marketing possibilities and the extension of consuming power. But, of course, the union cannot contribute its effort except in co-operation with the organized employers."

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT announced that, beginning July 1, 1935, he will eliminate the 5 per cent pay cut that is now taken out of the salaries of all federal employees. The pay restoration, he explained, is being planned on the assumption that increases in the cost of living necessitate it.

The Treasury department thereupon admitted frankly that this means the taxpayers will be called on to pay an additional fifty million dollars a year for the benefit of the 700,000 federal employees who will benefit by the restoration in salaries.

Mr. Roosevelt predicted flatly that the cost of living will advance substantially within the next eight months. When he made this statement at his annual press conference he also cautioned reporters to remember that an increase in cost of living meant an increase in commodity and property values, thereby lessening the difficulty in paying debts. This is one of the avowed aims of the Roosevelt program.

He said he expected the rise of food, clothing, fuel, housing, and other living costs to be large enough by July 1 to justify the 5 per cent restoration. He refused to say whether the increase in government pay, which is being allowed for in the 1935 federal budget, is to be taken as an example for industry to follow.

THE MATING SEASON

HAVE you ever heard of the "Door of Hope" in Nanjing, China—and its "mating season"?

Last month the Door of Hope held its "mating season," which may sound like something for birds, but it is for girls; girls who want to get married.

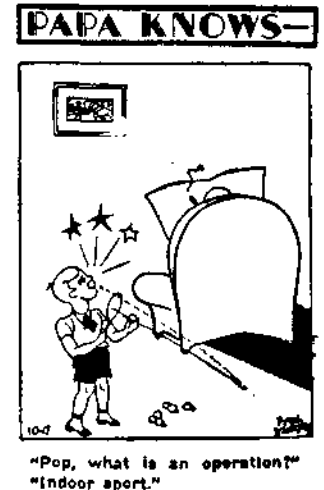

The "Door of Hope" is an institution in Nanjing which shelters and educates former slave girls. From six months to a year, these girls are kept there for domestic training. And periodically the institution announces that its "mating season" is open. For a week then, photographs of the graduates are hung on the walls of a room where the prospective bridegrooms may look them over.

When a man decides to become an applicant for a certain photograph, or for the young woman represented by it, he in turn submits to the management his photograph with the answers to a questionnaire which covers his age, occupation, income, habits and references. If he is found to be a satisfactory applicant, he is permitted to call upon the young lady. And given her consent, the marriage is arranged without loss of time.

During the last mating season, there were 151 applicants, from whom 19 girls took their choice. And while an open door mating season of this kind hardly fits in with our viewpoint of mating and marriage, who can say it doesn't have its advantages? (One hundred and fifty-one to nineteen, all qualifications submitted before the girl consents to a meeting. That "has it" in some ways on the familiar spectacle of unattached young women patiently waiting while they look hopefully upon a supercilious star, line of young men who sometimes have nothing more to recommend them than the law of supply and demand.)

A "Door of Hope" mating season for us? No. But it would be nice if the eastern and western idea could be modified into a combination of the best elements of both.

HOW TO SHOOT

By Bob Nichols

Shooting Editor, Field and Stream

ONE of the commonest errors of the novice upland hunter is to try to shoot a gun that is too long in the barrel. There is a widespread belief that long barrels make a gun shoot harder. Practically speaking, this isn't true. The short-barrel gun shoots just as hard, and kills game just as far away, as the old-fashioned "Long-Tom." The gun with 32, or even 30-inch barrels, is too long. You will do better work with 28—better still with 25-inch barrels. I am even of the opinion that most standard gunstocks are slightly too long. The standard stock is about 14 inches from front of trigger to the middle of the butt-plate. My favorite gun has 25-inch barrel and 32½-inch stock. The shortened gun—at the barrel as well as at the stock—speeds up your handling of it tremendously.

In the latest designs of American shotgun being turned out today, one trend is definitely toward the 20-inch barrel. This is undoubtedly the gun for upland use. Robert Churchill, the famous English gun maker, was the pioneer in this field of shotgun research. Some years ago he brought out his new well-known line XXV guns, so named because of their 25-inch barrels—and almost immediately it became apparent that the users of these short-barrel guns were to do better work in the field than sportsmen of equal skill using longer tubes. The reason is easy to demonstrate. The shorter you make your "pointer," the quicker you can point it. Try pointing with a walking stick. Much quicker. Try pointing with your finger—instantaneous. If you want to learn to shoot, and learn it quickly, begin now with a short-barreled lightweight 20-gauge. Have it properly stocked to fit you. Then watch your score begin to climb!

Just within the last year I have had a fine opportunity to observe how the right gun can make a wonderful difference in speeding up a man's acquisition of skill. I have a friend who has been hunting for the past ten years. Up until last summer, even with all his experience, he was still a miserable shot. Shortly after I met him early last spring he told me, jokingly and regretfully, that the only reason his friends ever took him on a hunt was because he has big feet and had the reputation for kicking up more game than any other shooter in the party.

He finally showed me his gun. It was all I expected it would be. A 12-gauge with 30-inch barrels that tipped the scales at exactly seven and three-quarters pounds. Moreover, it was bored modified and full choke—much too close for a field gun. As a crowning fault it had a good 8 inches of drop at the heel of the buttstock—in other words, an "undershooting" gun. The big drop explained why he could kill an occasional rabbit for the right way to shoot rabbits is to slightly undershoot. But pheasant, woodcock, or grouse, were too much for him. He had arrived at the hopeless stage where he was convinced that he could never become a decent shot.

Shortly after that he did me a kind favor. In return I presented him with an extra gun I had in my cabinet—a neat little 20-gauge pump gun, with 28-inch modified choke barrel, that weighed just short of six pounds. He was grateful, but just a little dubious about so small a gun.

During the remainder of the summer and on up through September, I took him crow and hawk shooting frequently. Slowly I taught him that he had to swing from behind his target, swing past, and shoot ahead of it. Before long he was tumbling the cornstalkers and chicken-snatchers from 30 to 40 yards out of the sky with fair regularity—and was he delighted!

Lately, during the hunting season, he shot with the same friends who formerly regarded him as the "game dog" of the party. Only this time the laugh was on them. He killed grouse, pheasant, woodcock—and taking bunnies, he told me later, was like shooting fish in a bathtub. On two occasions he out-shot every man in the party.

Anyone can learn to shoot if he gets the RIGHT gun!

Opossum is Protected, but is Found Nuisance

State wildlife investigators who are endeavoring to determine whether the opossum should be classed as predatory in Michigan have so far found little to justify the protection that is now afforded this animal. Paul Hicks, state analyst, who has examined the stomach contents of a number of opossums, states that the specimens examined have been guilty of eating both eggs and birds; the latter of which he believes to be belonging to the pheasant family, and that these findings indicate the "possum" to be of no benefit whatever.

The opossum made its first appearance in the state about five years ago. It has long been declared a nuisance and a pest by farmers, hunters and others, despite the protection afforded it by law.

Shakespeare's Vocabulary Far From Present Supply

Shakespeare's vocabulary was the greatest in history. It was remarkably rich and exhibited most of the language resources of his time. Prof. Albert Cook in his "Study of English" says that Shakespeare employed about 21,000 words; others say 15,000 or 24,000. But our language has ten times as many words as in Shakespeare's time. Our prodigious advance in science has added such a wealth of technical words to the language that a writer who covers many fields of human activity probably uses more different words than Shakespeare did.

The average well-educated man uses from 6,000 to 8,000 different words; how many more he knows is difficult to determine; and the average person, it is estimated, employs about 4,000 words—possibly more. Take the men who build radios, automobiles, electrical appliances, and mechanics in railroad shops. It is conceivable that they may have at their command several hundred, maybe a thousand words that have to do with technical phases of their experiences.

JENNY WREN TELLS WHO THE STRANGER IS

THE longer Peter Rabbit stared at the stranger in the Old Orchard, the more he realized how mistaken he had been in thinking that he was dressed all in black. Now that Peter was so near he could see that the stranger was speckled all over with tiny light spots. Underneath he was dark brownish-gray. His wings and tail were the same color, with little touches of buff. His rather large bill was yellow. Peter hurried back to Jenny Wren, and it must be confessed, he looked sheepish. "You were right, Jenny Wren. He isn't black at all," confessed Peter.

"He is Speckled the Starling and He isn't Really an American at All."

"Of course I was right. I usually am," retorted Jenny. "He isn't black; he isn't even related to the Blackbird family, and he hasn't any business in this country, anyway. He's a foreigner. That's what he is, a foreigner."

"But you haven't told me who he is," protested Peter.

"He is Speckled the Starling and he isn't really an American at all," replied Jenny. "He comes from across the ocean the same as Bully the English Sparrow. Thank goodness he hasn't such a quarrelsome disposition as Bully. Just the same, the rest of us would be better satisfied if he were not here. He has taken possession of one of the old houses of Yellow Wing the Flicker, and that means one less house for birds who really belong here. If his family increases at the rate Bully's family does, I'm afraid some of us will be crowded out of the Old Orchard. Did you notice that yellow bill of his?"

Peter nodded. "I certainly did," he said. "I couldn't very well help noticing it."

"Well, there's a funny thing about that bill," replied Jenny. "In winter it turns almost black. Most of us wear a different colored suit in winter, but our bills remain the same."

"He seems to be pretty well fixed here, and I don't see but what the thing for the rest of the birds to do is to make the best of the matter," said Peter. "What I want to know is, whether or not he is of any use?"

"I guess he must be of some good," admitted Jenny Wren rather grudgingly. "I've seen him picking up worms and grubs, but he likes grain, and I have a suspicion that if his family becomes very numerous, and I suspect it will, they will eat more of Farmer Brown's grain than they will pay for by the worms and bugs they destroy. Hello! There's Dandy the Waxwing and his friends."

Quite decided contrast is experienced in weather conditions this month from that of November of last year. A year ago we were having real winter weather, which really started about October 17th and on the first day of hunting the temperature was down to 5 above and the warmest 15 above. So far this year we have had a much higher average temperature, considerable rain and an occasional snow fall that was of short duration. Today, the beginning of the deer season, the ground is bare and the temperature hovers around 30 degrees at noon and 31 at night. Last year there was at least a foot of snow on the ground on the opening day of hunting and more snow falling. In fact the weather last year was quite blizzardy and the temperature near zero.

The man who edits the average country newspaper cannot well avoid treading on somebody's toes continually; must expect to be censured; must expect hard work and a little thanks; must expect to be called a coward because he does not "pitch into" everything that somebody thinks is wrong, and a fool if he speaks out too plainly on public evils; he must expect to grind other people's axes—and turn the grindstone himself. Still we think it is one of the noblest professions on earth; the one in which the common man can do the most good to his fellow men and in which an honorable man can wield much power for good.

Annual Appeal Of Red Cross

In accordance with a long established custom, the American Red Cross will conduct its annual "Roll Call" in this and thousands of other communities throughout the country from Armistice Day until Thanksgiving. This statement was made today by Chris W. Olsen, chairman of the local Chapter.

Appointment of Mrs. Holger Schmidt as campaign chairman was announced, and she has selected a committee from the Woman's Club to assist her.

"The Red Cross is no stranger in this community. Locally, it has rendered an indispensable service during the period of depression and partial recovery. Its work must go on. Since all its activities are made possible by individual support," said the chapter chairman, "I am convinced that the local citizenship will respond quickly and graciously when the membership campaign gets under way."

You may leave your subscription or donation at the post office Friday, where a committee from the Woman's club will be stationed. Or you may leave them at either drug store, the Bank, or Shoppens Inn.

LOVELLS

(By Mrs. Cora Nephew)

Angler Fish Have Their Own Rod, Line and Bait

Angler fish have a miniature rod with line and bait attached to the top of the head. Found in the greatest depths worked with a crawl, many are small, but the chief part of their bodies is the mouth. They evidently obtain their food by waiting for some smaller creature to snap at the permanent "bait," which hangs temptingly at the end of their rod, for most of their other organs, such as fins, eyes, and tail, appear to be useless. But in a world darker than the darkest night how do they find their way to the bait?

On the other hand, says Tit-Bits Magazine, we find an angler fish developed in the opposite way. Its fins are well adapted for swimming, and the rod has dwindled, showing that as the creature depends more and more upon its swimming powers for capturing food, so the rod and bait become smaller.

The sack-throated whip-tail is hideous. One specimen was six feet in length, and had a body two feet long with a huge mouth, over which were a pair of pin-point eyes. The remainder of its length being a whip-like tail. Several specimens have been taken dead on the surface, their bodies each containing a fish practically the same size as the hunter. Live specimens have been obtained at a depth of 1,000 fathoms.

Trawls used at great depth are necessarily small, and the objects brought to the surface are, in consequence, not large, but it is probable that in those sinister depths there are other fish as huge as they are ugly.

Bronze Age Cemeteries in Circle Arrangement

Druidical circles, cromlechs or dolmens, depending on whether they are found in Britain, France or Scandinavia, are groups of three or more stone pillars, arranged in circular form when sufficient have been erected, and are believed to be cemeteries of the Bronze Age.

Often these stones are arranged in a large circle, with one or more smaller circles contained within the outer.

The largest circle found in Scotland is the group at Stennis, Orkney. There are 13 still standing, the largest being 14 feet tall. A most 6 feet deep and 80 feet wide surrounds the stones.

At Stonehenge on the plains of Salisbury, England, stands the greatest collection of the stones, however. A circle with stones 13 feet high and spaced 4 feet apart is the most extensive, while other circles and ovals are composed of stones in some cases 23 feet high. Altogether, there are 140 pillars in the layout.—Washington Star.

Strained With Human Hair

Great quantities of human hair were imported into this country up to a few years ago, to be used in the manufacture of hair nets to be worn by the American women. The hair came from China and Europe, but when the "bob" came into fashion the demand for hair nets declined to such an extent that the shipments almost reached the zero point. But the hair is still coming in limited quantities, especially the Chinese hair, for an entirely different use. It is used for straining oil in the refineries. This process takes place under pressure and all of the materials which have been generally made use of have been found to be unsatisfactory. They are often too frail or too costly.

Weight of Water

The weight of fresh water is about 62.4 pounds a cubic foot. According to the principle of Archimedes, the lifting effect on a submerged body is equal to the weight of the displaced liquid, and any object weighing more than 62.4 pounds a cubic foot will sink in fresh water. Sea water is somewhat denser than fresh water, owing to its salinity, weighing about 64 pounds a cubic foot at the surface, and about 66 pounds a cubic foot in the deepest known places. Any object weighing more than 66 pounds a cubic foot will sink to the bottom in such water.

Uncle Sam Paid France

France received from the United States all of the money which was borrowed during the time of the American Revolution. This debt was discharged between 1791 and 1795 by money borrowed in Holland. The latter debt was finally paid Holland in the early part of the Nineteenth century. The money borrowed from France was borrowed between the years 1778 and 1782. The interest on these loans was forgiven until 1783, and in fact little interest was paid until 1790.—Washington Star

A Quiet English Village

Who says the English countryside is absolutely ruined? West Ashton, in Wiltshire, is proud of its simplicity. It has no railway station, no "pubs," no policemen, no crime and none but voluntary unemployment. There's a bus from the nearest town every other week. There are electric lights along the roads, in the church and on several large farms. The cottagers are content with oil lamps. There's no real estate office.

ST. HILEN

(By Kate B. Carter)

This community is preparing for a great influx of hunters for the opening of the season. More deer are reported than in any preceding season, likewise numerous bear have been recently seen here.

The new schoolhouse built under the C.W.A., is practically finished. It is built of cobblestone and is up to date in all its appointments, which include its own electric lighting plant and independent electric water system. It is large enough for a consolidation of schools when the proper time comes.

A sawmill was set up in the village power plant building to square logs for a very fine log cabin 26 x 44 which is being built in Lakeview park for Ohio people. Several cottages of frame and some of logs have also been built at Artesia Beach.

The P.T.A. will hold a hunters dance at the town hall Saturday evening. These meetings have been popular heretofore.

Two families of this township have sons who have honored the community in being elected to important offices in the recent election. Merle Nellist whose father is F. B. Nellist of Keno was made prosecutor of Crawford County and Duncan McCrae, son of F. B. McCrae, now of Muskegon, prosecutor of Wayne county.

Mrs. Bruce Nolan is caring for Mrs. Ralph White whose little daughter was born Sunday night.

NOTICE TO DEER HUNTERS

The presence of about 8,000 young men working in the woods from the various CCC camps scattered throughout the deer country has caused the Department to request that hunters be especially careful with high-powered rifles while in the vicinity of camps. Last year there were no reports of casualties involving CCC men in Michigan to mar the open season.

In order that the enrollees from the CCC camps may be readily distinguishable in the woods, U.S. Army authorities and the Michigan Emergency Conservation Work office in Lansing have provided a large quantity of red cloth to be worn on khaki caps and uniforms.

Each camp has been issued 50 large signs (WARNING TO HUNTERS, DANGER—CCC CAMP) which are to be posted near the camps and work projects, asking hunters to be careful in the use of firearms so as to avoid possible accidental injury or death during the hunting season.

During the deer hunting season of 1933 no fatalities occurred among the enrolled or supervisory personnel of the camps in Michigan, and the earnest cooperation and interest of all individuals concerned is imperative in order that a similar condition will exist at the end of the 1934 hunting season.

THROUGH A TWO MAN'S EYES • BY JEAN NEWTON

COME OUT OF THE HEN COOP!

A MAN in Camden, N. J., is suing his wife to let him out of a hen coop! Or that is what it amounts to. What he is actually suing for is the return of the title to his home, since it is his signing that over to her which resulted in his having to live with the chickens. No sooner had he transferred the house to her, he says, than she put him out of it and made him live in the hen coop.

How, you might ask, can any woman make any man live in a hen coop? We forgot to state that the husband in question is a seventy-eight-year-old preacher, and the woman he married thirty-five. Incidentally, a younger man is involved whom he is suing for alienation of affections.

But even at seventy-eight, you will insist, a man can come out of a hen coop and assert his rights to his own house. "And a man who at that age had ambition enough to marry a young wife," said the first woman to whom I put this unique case, "you'd think he'd have spunk enough to see that no one put him out of his own house. If he was so helpless as that, what he wanted was a nurse, and not a wife. Why didn't he hire one instead of marrying her? Then she couldn't have put him out!"

History would indicate that old men before have had the "ambition" to marry young wives, and while they have not all landed in the hen coop, frequently that has seemed to be the end of their "ambition."

Whatever the merits of the accusation of this elderly minister that his young wife made him live in the hen coop, there is something in the thought of my friend that for a man who remains helpless in such a situation it would be more rational to hire a nurse than to take unto himself a young wife.

Five Mistakes

A man struck a match to see if the gasoline tank on his automobile was empty. It wasn't.

A man patted a strange bulldog on the head to see if it was affectionate. It wasn't.

A man speeded up to see if he could beat the train to the crossing. He couldn't.

A man touched an electric wire to see if it was charged. It was.

A man cut out his advertising to see if he could save money. He didn't.

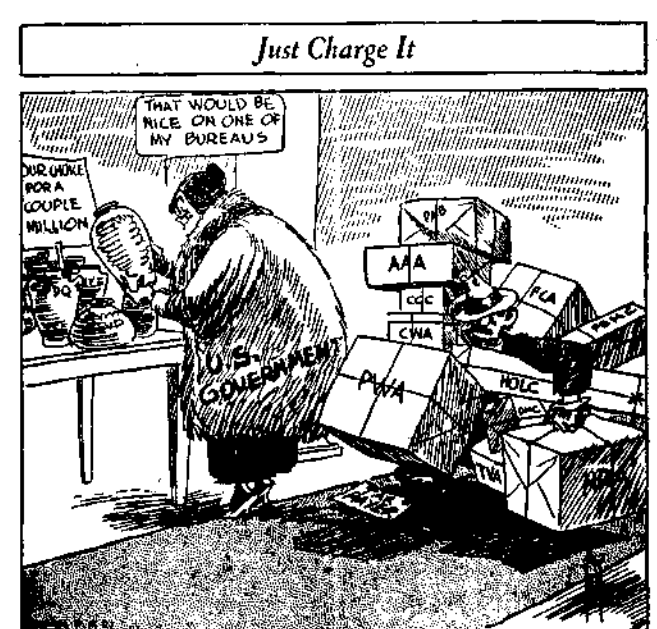

Don't Make Any of These Mistakes!!

Rat Shoots Self and Records Fatal Event

THIS is the "Rube Goldberg" contraption rigged up by George W. Penner of Syracuse, N. Y., a photographer, whereby a rat killed itself as it took bait that fired a gun, at the same time photographing the event. At one end of the novel trap the bait was suspended from a wire. Pulling the bait released a catch which dropped a hammer operated by a spring. This tripped the trigger of the revolver. The shot not only killed the rat but cut a piece of string, releasing a spring, which set off the flashlight. A watch close to the revolver showed the time of the death of the rat and the taking of the picture.
